

It is our mission to inspire, support and encourage all the children of the world to be creative and to explore that creativity through reading, writing and drawing.

We are firmly and forever committed to the development of children.

Ekidslan Publishing, LLC - Aditi's Story

- home
- about us
- projects
- books
- links
- contest
- contact us
- Artist of the month
- Author of the month
- Release agreement
- kids blog
- publisher services
- Services & Fees

Radio Press Release for Val Simone Click Here!

Recent Radio/TV Interviews Click here!

Mission Statements

Free "ColorMe" Downloads Here!

Want to receive and send large files--FREE? Click on the link below.
mail@bigfile.com

AUTHOR OF THE MONTH

Lenny the Brownie

By Aditi
10 Years Old
India

Copyright © 2008 by Aditi. All Rights Reserved.

Lenny the Brownie was great because he dug up more gold than any other Brownie in the land. He lived deep in the forest under a tree which was red in color. Lenny's grandfather had given him the first gold digging shovel. The shovel had "Lenny" engraved into its handle. Lenny took it everywhere he went, but today, by mistake, he forgot it at home. This was his day of finding gold. He did not want to miss any, so he took a shorter route back to his house.

On his way back home he stumbled upon a strange tree with roots sticking out of the ground. He did not have his shovel, but he noticed bright yellow color shining beneath its bark. He peeled back some of the bark and saw that the material shining was gold. The tree, being very, very tall, the top of which could not be seen, as to where it went up in the sky.

Lenny had to know what was at the top of the tree. He started climbing up and up, higher and higher, peeling the bark wherever possible to make sure there was gold underneath. Finally, he reached the very top of the tree and looked up, and to his surprise he saw dirty lanes, he was surprised to see children in torn clothes, eating leftovers which were thrown by other people. People lying and sleeping on foot paths. He could just see poverty everywhere and nothing else. Lenny had never seen anything of this kind before.

On walking further ahead, suddenly he felt as though the sun is shining in his eyes. He was unable to see further because of the glare. Luckily he had his black goggles in his pocket. He quickly wore it. He then saw it was a big huge palace made of gold.

Quietly, he went near it and entered it. People moving in the palace all wore jewelry made of gold. Women, as well as men, wore ornaments on whole of their bodies. Things, too, in the palace, were made of gold.

On one side he had seen such poverty and other side he had seen such richness. He couldn't imagine as to why the rich people of Palace did not help the poor on the lanes. Lenny swore he would go back to his house, and bring all the gold he had collected so far and help the poor people on the tree top and from now onwards whatever he would collect with his shovel he would give it to the poor. Lenny got down speedily from the tree down only to come back soon.

The End

Some interesting links:

Event Management Services, Inc. (EMSI) (Wonderful Publicists)

News and Experts (arranges guests for media)

Illustrator Joshua McGill's Website

Free Directory Submission

A Big Dir

Add Link - Suggest Link - Submit URL Directory

Add Your Link Free

Abstract Directory

Previous Page

Top

home | about us | contest | projects | contact us

privacy policy | site map | services-fees

Copyright © 2009 Ekidsland Publishing, LLC. All Rights Reserved.

For publishing services and fees please click here!

To purchase eBooks please click here!